Nassim Soleimanpour is a playwright from Iran. His play White Rabbit Red Rabbit has been performed widely and in more than 20 languages. Performed each night by a different actor, who has not seen the script before. First performed at the 2011 Edinburgh and Clubbed Thumb's Summerworks festivals, it has since been performed by an array of A-list actors, including F. Murray Abraham, Wayne Brady, Bobby Cannavale, Whoopi Goldberg, Nathan Lane, Cynthia Nixon, and many more at its premiere in New York City at the Westside Theatre in 2016 where it ran for 42 weeks, produced by Tom Kirdahy. His play 'Blind Hamlet' premiered during the 2014 Edinburgh Festival Fringe at the Assembly Roxy. DENIZEN Theatre Gallery presents:

A PICTURE PAINTS A 1000 WORDS

13 talented local visual artists were given a word in an envelope and had only two hours to paint in response to that word. In 'White Rabbit Red Rabbit' the actor has no preconceived knowledge of the script until they arrive on stage.

A first instinct response to words from the script, FREEDOM and CONFORMITY.

Proceeds from the paintings sold will be distributed evenly to the visual artist and Wild Earth.

Wild Earth leads transformative nature immersion experiences that cultivate character, confidence, passion and perseverance in New York's youth. Located along the Shawangunk Ridge in New York's Hudson Valley, Wild Earth is a not-for-profit that runs nature-based programs for children, teens, families and adults.

Special thanks to Blick Art Material for donating the canvases and paint.
